1. Det. "A" A-1015
2. Conclusions:
 - (a) Excellent for areas not undercast.
 - (b) Normal photo reconnaissance mapping mission.
 - (c) No recommendations.
3. Supply Support:
 - (a) Base facilities adequate.
 - (b) Target data not available.
 - (c) Internal security adequate.
 - (d) Coordination with ADC not applicable in this mission.
 - (e) Negative.
4. Effects on mission:
 - (a) Aircraft maintenance and supply excellent.
 - (b) Communications excellent.
 - (c) Photographic equipment excellent.
 - (d) Cloud cover undercast prevented a completely successful mission.
 - (e) Navigation excellent.
 - (f) Flight planning excellent. Flight planning for this type of mission must be studied and planned to the most minute detail. The high degree of success on the part of the pilots is due, in part, to the carefully prepared flight plans furnished the pilots flying these missions.
 - (g) Flight following good, but reports are from thirty minutes to two hours late. Exact positions of the mission aircraft are not known under this type of flight following procedures.
 - (h) Normal photographic reconnaissance and mapping tactics used.
 - (i) None.
